Faculti Summary

Phillip Bernstein outlines strategies for architects to adapt to the transformative impacts of AI and machine learning, emphasizing the need for the profession to embrace new technologies that will reshape design processes and roles, ensuring future relevance and success