

Faculti Summary

<https://faculti.net/the-black-phd-experience/>

This video video discusses the experiences and motivations of Black PhD students and academics in higher education in the UK. It highlights the lack of representation, barriers faced, and the need for structural changes and support systems to promote inclusivity and success for Black students. The speakers emphasize the importance of mentorship, diverse research centers, mandatory training, and creating inclusive environments where individuals can thrive. They call for genuine actions, not performative gestures, to address systemic issues of racism within educational institutions.
